31. 32. If it appears that such goods are properly chargeable with a higher rate or amount of duty than that to which they would be subject according to the value thereof as stated in the [import declaration]¹ or shipping bill, such officer may detain such goods.

In every such case the detaining officer shall forthwith give notice in writing to the owner of the goods of their detention, and of the value thereof as estimated by him; and the [Competent Customs Official]¹ shall, within two clear working days after such detention, or within such reasonable period as may with the consent of the parties be arranged, determine either to deliver such goods on payment of duty charged according to the entry of such owner, or to retain the same for the use of Government.

33. If, on the first examination of any such goods under section 31, the owner thereof states in writing that such goods are, in consequence of damage sustained before delivery of the [import declaration]¹, of value less than that stated such bill, the [Competent Customs Official]¹, on being satisfied of the fact, may allow abatement of duty accordingly.

Deterioration of tariff value goods.

34. When any goods, the value of which has been fixed by law for the purpose of levying duties thereon, have, before delivery of the [import declaration]¹, deteriorated to the extent of more than one-tenth of their value, the duty on such goods shall, if the owner thereof so desires, be assessed ad valorem.

The [customs value]¹ of such goods shall be ascertained as provided in section 33, and the duty shall be assessed thereon.

Abatement of duty on goods on which duty is levied on quantity.

34-A. Where the [Competent Customs Official]¹ is satisfied that any goods on which duties are levied on quantity and not on value, and which are of a kind to which the [Ministry of Finance]¹ has, by notification in the Gazette, declared that the provisions of this section shall apply, have before delivery of the [import declaration]¹ deteriorated to the extent of more than one-tenth of their value, he may allow an abatement of duty proportionate to the extent of such deterioration.

No abatement when duty is levied on quantity.

35. No abatement of duty on account of any deterioration shall be allowed on wine, spirit or beer, or save as provided by section 34-A on any other articles on which duties are levied on quantity and not on value.

37. The rate of duty and the tariff valuation (if any) applicable to any goods imported shall be the rate and valuation in force on the date on which the [import declaration]¹ thereof is delivered to the [Competent Customs Official]¹ under section 86:

Provided that, if such goods are warehoused under this Act, the rate and valuation (if any) applicable thereto shall be the rate and valuation in force on the date of the actual removal of such goods from the warehouse in the case of goods delivered out of a warehouse for home consumption, and in the case of goods delivered out of a warehouse for removal under bond to be re-warehoused where the duty is paid on such goods without their being re-warehoused, the rate and valuation (if any) in force on the date on which duty is paid.

No refund of charges erroneously levied or paid, unless claimed within [one year].¹

41. The [Competent Customs Official]¹ may, if he thinks fit, instead of requiring payment of customs-duties and charges due from any mercantile firm or public body, at the time such duties and charges are payable under this Act, keep with such firm or body an account-current of such duties and charges. Such account shall be settled at intervals not exceeding one month, and such firm or body shall make a deposit or furnish security sufficient in the opinion of the [Competent Customs Official]¹ to cover the amount which may at any time be due from then in respect of such duties and charges.
